THURSDAY, DECEMBER 2ND & FRIDAY, DECEMBER 3RD, 2021

Los Angeles, California - (November 22nd, 2021) - This December, Julien's Auctions, presents ICONS & IDOLS: HOLLYWOOD the world-record breaking auction house to the stars' year end blockbuster auction event taking place on Thursday, December 2nd & Friday, December 3rd, 2021 at Julien's Auctions in Beverly Hills and live online at julien auctions.com.

This two day event offers some of Hollywood's most famous pop culture relics from the Golden Age of Hollywood to today's modern and contemporary film and television classics - Batman, Die Hard, Back to the Future, Wonder Woman, The Ten Commandments, Pulp Fiction, Lord of the Rings, Harry Potter and James Bond films, *M*A*S*H*, Seinfeld, All in the Family, Game of Thrones and more - featuring over 1,200 props, memorabilia and costumes used by Hollywood's biggest stars and legends including Marilyn Monroe, John Travolta, Michael Keaton, Bruce Willis, Keanu Reeves, Buster Keaton, Doris Day, Jerry Lee Lewis, Flip Wilson, Charlotte Rae, Terry Moore, Burt Reynolds, and more.

Marquee highlights of this event include (with estimates):

- John Travolta's original two-piece Perry Ellis suit worn as in his iconic role as mob hit man Vincent Vega in the cult classic film Pulp Fiction ($20,000-$40,000);
- A collection of Bruce Lee artifacts featuring the martial arts legend and international superstar's yellow synthetic jumpsuit with black stripes worn by Buddy Joe Hooker, Bruce Lee's stunt double in the 1978 film Game of Death ($20,000-$40,000) (photo right), his Corning model 1140S sunglasses worn from 1967-1973 ($4,000-$6,000) and his custom-made black Barrington Plaza nunchaku famously featured in the collection of intimate family portraits shot in 1966 at Bruce and Linda Barrington's Los Angeles home ($20,000-$40,000);
- Patrick Swayze's Spyder brand surfboard custom designed by Dennis Jarvis used in his iconic role as Bodhi in the film Point Break and hand signed by Swayze and inscribed "100% pure adrenaline!" ($10,000-$20,000) (photo bottom right);
- From the Harry Potter franchise: David Thewlis' wand in his role as Professor Remus Lupin from the 2004 installment Harry Potter & The Prisoner of Azkaban ($5,000-$7,000), a wand used by Death Eater "Alecto Carrow" in the 2011 film Harry Potter & The Deathly Hallows ($4,000-$6,000) and Rupert Grint's hero wand in his role as "Ron Weasley" from the same film ($5,000-$7,000) as well as signed stamp sheets by the cast members, Daniel Radcliffe, Emma Watson, and Rupert Grint, call sheets and Hogwarts acceptance letter;
- A pair of dark leather lace-up "bower boots" worn by James Marcus as Georgie, one of the droogs, in 1971 Stanley Kubrick film A Clockwork Orange seen in the infamous "Singing in the Rain" sequence ($8,000-$10,000);
- An original Heckler & Koch MP5 machine prop gun used by Bruce Willis as John McClane in the 1988 action film classic, Die Hard ($8,000-$10,000) and a gold bar prop signed by WWE wrestler Philip Theis who plays a henchman in Die Hard with a Vengeance ($300-$500);
- John Wick prop weapons and costumes including a stunt SIG-Sauer MPX Carbine rifle used in John Wick: Chapter 3 ($4,000-$6,000) during the production of the action film starring Keanu Reeves and his John Wick: Chapter 2 stunt black two-piece wool suit costume accompanied by a sword and cleaver from the production ($2,000-$3,000) (stunt versions of weapons are used by the cast in scenes that don't require active shooting for the safety of the cast and crew);

- A large dragonglass dagger used to defeat the dreaded white walkers in hit fantasy series Game of Thrones made of a dense urethane rubber and a jagged long black blade made to resemble obsidian with a white handle section that resembles bone ($3,000-$5,000);
- A custom designed Baldoni brand accordion played by Vlasta Krsek, the "International Queen of Polka," in the classic 1986 John Hughes film Ferris Bueller's Day Off in the famous parade float scene with Ferris (played by Matthew Broderick), where she accompanies him as he performs the songs "Danke Schoen" and "Twist and Shout," ($2,000-$3,000) (photo right);

- An elaborate sash in the form of a falcon with outstretched wings worn by Yul Brynner as Rameses II in Cecil B. DeMille's 1956 classic film The Ten Commandments ($8,000-$10,000) (photo above);
- Liam Neeson's stunt lightsaber made for his character, Qui-Gon Jinn, in the 1999 blockbuster Star Wars: Episode I - The Phantom Menace ($20,000-$40,000). The stunt lightsaber features the green blade used in stunt and fighting sequences to later be replaced with post production special effects (stunt sabers were cast in resin to create a lightweight prop to be used by the actors and stuntmen for ease of use and to mitigate the risk of injury);
- Gal Gadot's Wonder Woman lasso of truth made of urethane rubber and cast from a real beaded lasso featuring a wrapped design that has been painted gold and which would later be enhanced on screen with the help of CGI ($8,000-$10,000) (photo below)

- Items from the classic television series *M*A*S*H* such as an original script from the final episode of the hit series "Goodbye, Farewell and Amen" custom bound in green leather and cloth with gilt-stamped titling inscribed to longtime series director, Charles Dubin from producer Burt Metcalfe ($2,000-$4,000), a limited edition copy of "The Last Days of MASH" by Arlene Alda accompanied by a letter and envelope from Alan Alda to Charles Dubin ($1,000-$2,000) and an original clapperboard (dated January 6th, 1983) for an episode titled "Say No More;"

- Poker chips from the James Bond film franchise including a $1,000,000 poker chip and a $500,000 poker chip from the 2006 film Casino Royale starring Daniel Craig (each $3,000-$5,000) (photo right), three "Floating Dragon" casino chips from the 2012 Skyfall film ($7,000-$9,000) and three acrylic chips from "Le Casino L'Or Noir" featured in the 1999 film The World Is Not Enough starring Pierce Brosnan ($2,000-$3,000);

- Personal items from the screen goddess Marilyn Monroe including a handwritten poem with the verses "Stones on the walk/ every color there is/ I stare down at you/ like a horizon/ the space air is between us beckoning/ and I am many stories up/ my feet frightened/ as I grasp towards you" ($4,000-$6,000), Monroe's last 1962 American Federation of Television and Radio Artists membership card ($2,000-$3,000) and her 1959 Screen Actors Guild membership card ($2,000-$3,000), Monroe's letters to Arthur Miller's daughter Jane from 1957 with amusing stories ($600-$800), typed notes from a meeting held April 3rd, 1958 at Monroe's 444 East 57th Street apartment in New York City with attendees Lew Wasserman, Mort Viner, Marilyn Monroe, and Arthur Miller regarding the topic Some Like It Hot, with one note reading "MCA on the Coast has told Wilder that there are 'legal technicalities holding up her decision' as as not to offend Wilder. Actually, she is waiting for Sinatra to enter the picture. She still doesn't like Curtis but Wasserman doesn't know anybody else" ($400-$600), and a piece of ceramic tile decorated with a tan and yellow handpainted flower from her bathroom in her last home in Brentwood, California ($600-$800);

- Terminator 2: Judgement Day costume, worn by Arnold Schwarzenegger in his iconic role as The Terminator, consisting of a black leather biker jacket with the back of the jacket cut open with distress as part of the continuity of the film as the T-800 is damaged as the film progresses, a matching pair of black leather pants with a belt, and a gray Hanes "Beefy" XL T-shirt ($20,000-$30,000) (photo right) as well as Robert Patrick's Terminator 2 Judgement Day bullet ridden police shirt ($5,000-$7,000);

- An original pair of Nike MAG (Magnetic Anti-Gravity) movie prop replica shoes in their original box that appear in the 1989 sci-fi adventure sequel Back to the Future Part II ($4,000-$6,000);

- An original cowl created for Michael Keaton as Batman for the 1989 film Batman ($10,000-$20,000) (photo bottom right);

- Flip Wilson's 1970 Golden Globe award for "Best Television Actor In a Musical or Comedy Show" for The Flip Wilson Show ($3,000-$5,000);

- A script dated "8/6/74" from the episode titled "Archie Strikes" of All in the Family signed by the series' stars including Carroll O'Connor, Jean Stapleton, Sally Struthers, Betty Garrett, and Rob Reiner ($2,000-$4,000);

- A stunning floor-length peach-colored silk jersey evening gown entirely covered in bright orange sequins that Ray Aghayan designed for Doris Day to wear as Janet Harper in the 1965 comedy caper Do Not Disturb ($4,000-$6,000).

Another highly anticipated moment of the auction will be the previously announced Property from the Estate of Carl Reiner and Property from the Estate of Mel Blanc taking place December 3rd.

Additional special collections of the auction that were announced today include:

December 2nd
